UNITED NATIONS NATIONS UNIES

THE SECRETARY-GENERAL

MESSAGE TO THE SOUTHERN REGIONAL MODEL UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE Atlanta, 19-21 November 2009

On behalf of the entire United Nations system, I congratulate you for taking part in one of the most practical, hands-on experiences in international diplomacy for young people. As you participate in this Model United Nations exercise, you will get a full taste of the complexity of international relations. You will gain a better understanding of the intricacies of negotiations, the challenges of achieving consensus, and the patience required to win diplomatic progress. These skills will help you in whatever course you choose in life.

The world faces profound opportunities and obligations. We are connected as a human family as never before, opening up vast new possibilities. But we are also living through an age of multiple crisis including food, fuel, pandemic flu, and of course the biggest global economic crises since the founding of the United Nations. These crises are compounded by other, greater challenges: Climate change. The proliferation of deadly weapons. The plight of two billion of our fellow global citizens living in poverty.

None of these problems can be solved by any single nation acting alone. Never has the imperative of acting together been so self-evident. More and more people are coming to understand this fundamental fact.

Young people have much to contribute, not only in influencing our path for the future but in making a difference today. Half the world's population is under the age of 25. You can give voice to their hopes and needs. As you move forward in life, I urge you to keep learning more about the work of the United Nations and to share your knowledge and commitment with others. There is no greater good than a life of public service. It could be with the United Nations – or perhaps with an NGO, a foundation or your national government.

One thing is certain: Extraordinary times open extraordinary opportunities for change. This is such a moment. Help us meet the trials of our age and shape the world for good.

BAN Ki-moon

November 19-21, 2009 Atlanta, Georgia

Welcome from the Secretary-General

November 19, 2009

Greetings Delegates and Faculty,

Welcome to the 20th session of the Southern Regional Model United Nations. Our staff has worked very hard this year to prepare a stimulating weekend of debate on some of the most critical issues relating to human rights and equality. You will discuss topics ranging from the role of women in the global economy to improving access to health care, and the impact of free trade on labor and environmental standards. Human rights and equality is a very complex and multi-dimensional subject area. As such, the solutions to these problems are not simple, but through research, debate, and negotiation, you will leave the conference as a more informed citizen of the world.

If this is your first Model United Nations conference, I am so glad that you will have this experience with us. Not only will our staff be ready to guide you in improving your skills, you will also get to learn from some of the most experienced Model UN programs in the country who attend our conference yearly. If you are a returning delegate, welcome back. The continuing excellence of this conference is due partially to the outstanding Model United Nations programs that participate, and we're glad that you've chosen to continue your Model UN education with us.

Congratulations on your excellent preparations for the conference. We were all impressed by the high caliber of research that you have conducted in preparing your position papers, and hope this weekend will both enhance your knowledge and motivate you to use your skills for the betterment of the world.

Sincerely,
Cardell Johnson
Secretary-General

November 19-21, 2009 Atlanta, Georgia

Distinguished Keynote Speaker

Dr. Edward Lorenz is the Reid-Knox Professor of History and Political Science at Alma College and Director of the College's Public Affairs Institute. He received his undergraduate education at Towson University at Baltimore and his M.A. from Georgetown and Ph.D. from the University of Chicago.

Dr. Lorenz has had a long-term interest in the history of international law, an interest intensified long-ago when he knew of the protections of the Geneva Conventions when he served as a medic in Vietnam. Much more recently, he has focused on several themes related to international human rights and humanitarian law. The University of Notre Dame Press published his study of international labor standards, Defining Global Justice, in 2001. Both before and since he has had specialized international labor law studies published in law reviews, as well as published studies with World Bank Scholars.

While Dr. Lorenz continues to work on studies of international employment practices, including a current study of the behavior of international textile firm, Fruit of the Loom, which is under contract to Notre Dame Press, he has a number of other interests. Growing from his voluntary involvement in a community advisory group for U.S. EPA for a DDT contamination site near Alma College, he became concerned with global petro-chemical lobbying against the Stockholm Protocol on Persistent Organic Pollutants. As a result, Dr. Lorenz has been active in a global discussion of the use of DDT in the fight against malaria. In September 2009, Environmental Health Perspectives published the findings of an international DDT conference he organized. In addition, the former U.S. EPA Administrator, Christine Todd Whitman appointed Dr. Lorenz to the National Advisory Council for Environmental Policy and Technology which provides independent advice to the EPA Administrator on a broad range of environmental policy, technology and management issues.

Dr. Lorenz has also been involved in promoting inter-American dialogue on agricultural and food system changes, especially as those relate to indigenous cultures. In 2007, he received funding through the Kellogg Foundation to pilot the Common Table that brought together rural residents, including indigenous leaders, from the upper Midwest and north central Mexico to discuss shared concerns about changes in land tenure and food production methods. In addition, he has been active in promoting more general Mexico-U.S. dialogue and especially U.S. student immersion trips to the nations' border region. He serves on the board of Project Puente in El Paso that hosts border and migration study and student service.

Currently, Dr. Lorenz is working with a group of Alma students, and U.S. Foreign Policy Scholars on a project to counter the exceptional U.S. reluctance to participate in international institutions and to win U.S. membership in the International Criminal Court.

Distinguished Guest Speaker

Abraham Akec Awolich was born in Southern Sudan Lakes State at the Village of Malualtuuk in Awerial County. He became a refugee at the age of 8 years old after he was separated from his family during the civil war in Sudan. Abraham had been separated from his family for 18 years before he reunited with his family in March 2006. He had lived in a refugee camp in Ethiopia for two and half years before he moved to Kenya where he lived as a refugee for 9 years. Abraham came to the United States in February 2001 and was resettled in the State of Vermont in Burlington.

Abraham attended the University of Vermont where he studied Anthropology and Business Administration. He was a McNair Scholar and graduated in December 2005 with a Bachelor of Arts. He was awarded W. A. Havilland Medal for outstanding achievement in Anthropology. He was also awarded the prestigious national award; The Samuel Huntington Public Service Award in 2006. Abraham also holds a master degree in Public Administration at Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs at Syracuse University where he was a McNair fellow.

Abraham is the Founder and President of the Sudan Development Foundation (SUDEF). Abraham is also the co-founder of New Sudan Education Initiative (NESEI). Through his work with NESEI, he won a $ 200,000 grant through the World Bank Development Marketplace competition in May 2007 with his colleagues. He also works with the Association of Africans Living in Vermont as a Secretary General and member of the board of directors. Abraham served as a member of the board of trustees for the Sudanese Education Fund in Burlington serving Sudanese refugees in the Burlington area. Abraham also established a clinic in his village in 2007 where many villagers access primary healthcare.

Abraham has spoken and has done many lectures in many universities across the United States including Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Middlebury College, NYU, Fordham, Tufts, USF, Pittsburgh University, UVM and many other universities and colleges. Abraham was the keynote speaker on the World Refugee Day June 20, 2008 in New York City for the UNHCR. He was the keynote speaker recently at the international luncheon for National Rural Electricity Corporative Association annual meeting. Abraham mainly talks about his life experiences as a child living in refugee camps. He also gives lectures on the need for education and economic development in Southern Sudan. He has been a refugee advocate since his arrival in the United States and has been campaigning against Genocide in Darfur and refugee warehousing; a campaign to end unbearable situations in the refugee camps across the world.

The History of SRMUN

The Southern Regional Model United Nations (SRMUN) conference was inaugurated in 1990 in Greenville, South Carolina, with the intention of being an exemplary learning experience for undergraduate college students interested in pursuing issues of international concern. The first conference attracted delegations from 10 schools and a total of about 100 student participants. SRMUN's first Secretary General, Julie Pauling, was instrumental in organizing the conference. As a student member of the Board of Directors of the National Model United Nations (NMUN) organization during 1990 - 1992, she was convinced that establishing a regional "spin-off" would achieve two useful goals: first, schools that sent delegations to the spring NMUN conference would be able to gain some experience at a fall conference that would be smaller and less overwhelming to newer participants and, second, schools in the southeastern part of the country financially unable to send delegations to NMUN would still have an opportunity to benefit from a Model United Nations experience.

The conference site was moved to Atlanta in 1991 in order to have a location that was more central and an area that was more attractive to interested schools. The tactic worked successfully in very little time. Around 20 schools and 250 students participated in the second annual conference. Conference participation over the next several years gradually increased to over 400. As SRMUN entered its second decade of activity in 2000 delegate numbers exceeded 500 participants from approximately three dozen campuses. Most of the schools involved in SRMUN are located in the southeastern United States, but several colleges from outside the region also furnish delegations. It is particularly gratifying to observe the same schools returning year after year. In addition, each year's conference sees delegations appear from schools sending students for the first time. A significant number of schools are also able to provide more than one delegation. Thus, the number of countries represented at recent conferences runs typically well over 60.

During its early years (1990 – 1993) the administration of the SRMUN conference was the responsibility of NMUN's Board of Directors. The NMUN Board was generous with its financial support to get SRMUN off the ground. SRMUN did not have its own independent Board until 1993. In addition, NMUN advanced the funding to SRMUN that was required to establish the conference in the amount of a $10,000 loan. The rapid growth of the newly created conference enabled SRMUN to pay off the loan by 1995. By that time SRMUN's independent Board of Directors was fully established and became the ultimate authority for the conference's professionalism. SRMUN at this point became a fully sovereign conference independent of and separate from NMUN and equipped with its own governing structure.

The structure of SRMUN over the years has revealed remarkable resiliency in terms of how it dealt with what could only be referred to as growing pains. Atlanta was universally accepted as a natural physical location for the conference. It did become necessary to change hotel conference sites on a few occasions. However, as the conference grew in the number of attendees, first tier hotels developed substantial interest in hosting the event. From its inception, SRMUN has been held during the last half of November, normally the week before the Thanksgiving holiday. This schedule enables delegates the greater part of the fall semester to prepare for the conference and also allow them to enjoy a brief recess before the final examination season commences. The conference itself traditionally runs from late Thursday afternoon to Saturday evening.

SRMUN is a successful conference because of the loyalty and professionalism of its staff, delegates, faculty advisors, and supporters. There is no doubt that the original intention of the founders to make SRMUN a memorable learning experience has been and continues to be fulfilled. The participants are always eager, energetic, and devoted to their task.

SRMUN is sponsored by an educational non-profit corporation, the Southern Regional Model United Nations, Inc. The Board of Directors for SRMUN, Inc. is comprised of a five-member panel (three students and two faculty advisors) who are responsible for the overall state of the conference from year to year. Board members are responsible for meeting three or more times a year to conduct conference business. The Board has one-year and two-year student positions that are elected by the head delegates. Any student who has attended SRMUN for a minimum of two years is eligible to run for a student Board position. There are two faculty positions with staggered two-year terms. The faculty members attending SRMUN elect one faculty position during their meeting at the conference. The faculty member should be a person planning to attend the SRMUN conference during the next two years.

Each year, the Board will appoint people to Ex-Officio positions that serve in an advisory capacity without voting powers. The Secretary-General of the previous year is granted an Ex-Officio position on the Board. Finally, there are several hired positions that manage various corporate affairs for SRMUN; members holding these positions do not have voting rights.

SRMUN Policies

Delegate Code of Conduct

Delegates are expected to:

Remain in character by consistently advocating the interests and representing the policies of the country assigned. To be “in character” also entails displaying respect for the opinions and ideals of fellow delegates, even if these opinions and ideals conflict with a given delegate’s own country’s priorities.

Collaborate with fellow delegates where possible.

Conduct themselves in a courteous and professional manner at all times.

Refrain from consumption of alcohol and other drugs in committee sessions. [Note: Any issues related to illicit drugs will be immediately directed to the attention of Atlanta authorities.]

Delegates who disrupt committee sessions or create problems in the hotel may be barred from further participation in the conference.

Dress Code

Standard delegate attire for the conference is business jacket, slacks (or skirts for women), dress shirt (with tie for men) and dress shoes.

Shirts that expose excessive bare skin on the chest, stomach or are otherwise revealing are inappropriate.

Clothes that reveal undergarments are inappropriate.

Men’s facial hair should be shaved or trimmed neatly.

Dress sweaters for men are generally considered too casual, unless a tie is worn underneath.

Shorts, ball caps, jeans, sneakers, sandals and sunglasses are also forbidden.

It is inappropriate for delegates to display any national symbols such as flags, pins, crests, etc. on their person during committee sessions. UN symbols are acceptable.

Western business dress is preferred. Cultural dress is only permitted for international delegates in whose native countries professional business dress includes traditional cultural dress. These delegates are the only individuals to whom this applies. Any delegate attempting to use cultural costume to portray a “character” will be asked to leave the committee chamber and change into clothing that is more appropriate. The SRMUN conference will not tolerate any delegate’s attempt to mock traditional cultural attire or abuse it as costume.

All clothing must adhere to guidelines that portray professionalism and modesty. If a delegate’s attire is deemed inappropriate by the SRMUN staff the delegate will be asked to leave the session and return with appropriate attire.

Enhancing Global Commitments to Human Rights and Equality

November 19-21, 2009 Atlanta, Georgia

SRMUN Policies

Sexual Harassment Discrimination Policy

It is the intention of the Southern Regional Model United Nations Conference (SRMUN) that the environment of the SRMUN conference best achieves our educational goals. The SRMUN Executive Staff and Board of Directors will not tolerate any instances of discrimination based on race, color, gender, sexual orientation, national origin, religion, age or medical condition.

If any delegate, staff or faculty member believes they have encountered discrimination and/or harassment which results in a hostile working environment or disparate treatment, they must bring it to the attention of the Secretary-General of the conference. In the event that this is not possible, they must bring it to the attention of the President of the SRMUN Board.

The Secretary-General and a member or members of the SRMUN Board, as designated by the SRMUN Board, must investigate the merits of the allegations, interviewing all parties involved, and submitting a written report to the rest of the Board. Based on the investigation's findings, the Secretary-General, in conjunction with the Board of Directors, may:

Take no action;

Issue a verbal reprimand;

Remove an involved individual from the conference;

Implement any other action that the Board deems appropriate.

Conference Services Policies

A maximum of two delegates will be allowed in Delegate Services to work on each resolution at any one time. Delegates are expected to write their resolutions outside of the lab, and bring them in for typing or revision.

[NOTE: Delegates are generally seated on a first come, first serve basis. Delegates from committees not already working at a computer in the lab will be given preference when the lab is full. The USG for Conference Services reserves the authority to grant an earlier place in line to a delegate.]

There will be NO FOOD OR BEVERAGES allowed in Conference Services.

Internet resources are only for research use. Delegates will not be permitted to check their e-mail.

Once a delegate has finished typing, s/he should print the resolution and save the resolution according to the posted guidelines.

Photocopies will be made for the delegates at a charge of $.10 per copy. This cost is used to defray the rental and repair costs for copiers at SRMUN. Working papers and resolutions approved by the Director of the committee will be copied free of charge. Application printing is also free of charge.

Delegates may also purchase replacement badges and placards in Conference Services. Replacement badges will cost $5.00 and replacement placards will cost $10.00.

Mississippi Model Security Council

Department of Political Science & Public Administration
Mississippi State University

Mississippi Model Security Council (MMSC) is the state's only collegiate Model United Nations Conference focusing on international peace and security that provides a well-trained staff of college students who serve as a bridge in facilitating high school student's understanding of crucial and long-standing security issues and diplomacy strategies. MMSC offers a relaxed atmosphere that is conducive to an enjoyable learning experience while allowing high school students to be exposed to a college setting.

This marks the programs 31st year, and MMSC's theme has, therefore, been chosen as "Facing the Challenge of Globalization and its Multifaceted Complexities," and the conference will be held February 25-27, 2010 at the University's Colvard Student Union.

November 19-21, 2009 Atlanta, Georgia

Application Information

SRMUN applications are available online at www.srmun.org. Delegates are permitted to use the computers in Conference Services to complete their applications. Printing of applications is free of charge. Committee Staff application are due by the close of the conference on Saturday November 21. Also, Please note that executive staff applications for 2010 were due November 15th. However, we strongly encourage you to apply for SRMUN XXII by November 14, 2010.

Chair/Rapporteur Applications

Chairs and rapporteurs play a vital role in the workings of SRMUN by assisting the Director and AD with committee functions, such as facilitating debate, taking attendance, monitoring the speakers' list, and editing working papers. All delegates are encouraged to apply for a chair or rapporteur position by first filling out the application and then participating in an interview conducted by SRMUN staff members. In the interview, delegates will be expected to demonstrate their knowledge of SRMUN rules of procedure, as well as their ability to lead a committee debate.

Committee Staff Applications

The substantive staff of SRMUN remains the backbone of the conference. Staff is generally hired in late January to early February. In conjunction with the Directors-General, both Directors and Assistant Directors will select committee topics and compose topic outlines, summaries, background guides and updates. The writing process typically begins in March and continues throughout the summer, growing more increasingly more intensive. Directors must attend a staff-training weekend scheduled usually scheduled in July. In the early fall, committee staff composes updates and evaluates position papers. At the conference Directors and Assistant Directors serve as the chief substantive officers of their committees, facilitating the learning process obtain at SRMUN. Although previous Chair or Rapporteur experience is preferred, it is not required. This is a full year commitment. Please carefully consider this before applying for SRMUN Staff.

Executive Staff Applications

The responsibilities of the SRMUN executive staff are substantial but rewarding. The Director General and Deputy Director General are responsible for the substantive workings of the conference, including hiring and motivating committee staff, deciding committee topics, and editing of background guides and updates. The Secretary General is responsible for the business aspects of the conference, including school recruitment and correspondence. Previous SRMUN staff experience is highly preferred for these positions, but is not required. These positions require an extensive, full-year commitment. Consider this carefully before applying.
